PEDIGREE OF KING,

OF

LYNN, ESSEX COUNTY, MASS.

1602–1891

FIVE LINES OF DESCENT TRACED BY

RUFUS KING, ESQ., OF YONKERS, NEW YORK

MR DANIEL KINGE, SEN'., also called Daniel Kinge, Gentleman, b about 1602, was a younger son of Ralphe Kinge, of Walford, Hertfordshire, England, whose will in P. C. C., London (Berkley, 49), dated 1 Aug., 1653, proved 21 Nov., 1656, mentions, among other children, "My sons Daniell Kinge now in New England." Mr. Daniel Kinge was an early settler at Lynn, Mass., where he became the owner of a large estate. In 1644, his name appears in the Salem Court Records. In 1645, he purchased twenty-five acres of land in Lynn, called Sagamore Hill; in 1654, as Daniel Kinge, Gentleman, with wife Elizabeth, he gave deed of land then to Henry Collens, Sen'., in 1657, he deposed in Salem Court that he was aged 55 or thereabouts; in 1659, he gave deed of his homestead in Lynn, "now called Swansecott," to his son Ralph King. The Lynn Town Records state that: "Mr. Daniel King, Senior, Departed this life 27th May, 1672"; his will at Salem, dated 7-12 1671, proved 29-4-1672, mentions wife Elizabeth, whom he makes sole Executrix, son Daniel King, who receives lands in Lynn; son Ralph King as owning land there; daughter Hannah Blanco, to whom he bequeaths an estate called Darnell's Farm; daughter Elizabeth Redden, who receives certain lands in Lynn; daughter Sarah Nedam, to whom he gives Smith's Hill, together with 60 acres at the head of Duck Pond. The witnesses were Richard Walker and William Cowdry.

ELIZABETH (GUY?), whose name appears in the public records as early as 1642, when Mrs. Kinge, the Lady Deborah Moody, and others appeared in Salem Court, to defend their views relating to the ordinance of infant baptism. In 1676, Mrs. Elizabeth King complained that Mr. John Blanco had withheld land that belonged to his children by his deceased wife Hannah King. The papers in the case of Guy vs. Kinge, published in the N. E. Register, vol. 31, p. 475, include a letter dated at Lynn, 28 Dec., 1660, from Mrs. Elizabeth King to her nephew Mr. Wm Guy of London; in 1677, Mrs. Elizabeth King, relict and executrix of Mr. Daniel King, appeared in Salem Court in the matter of the guardianship of the children of her deceased daughter Hannah Blanco. The Lynn Town Records state that: "Elizabeth, the wife of Mr. Daniel King, Senior, departed this life 29 Feb., 1677-8." An inventory of her estate was taken 26 May, 1678, by William Bassett and Thomas Farrer and allowed 29-4-1678, with administration granted to Ralph King. This inventory mentions Mrs. King's daughter Sarah Nedom and her grand-daughter Hannah Blaney, and states that in her lifetime Mrs. King gave a grosse Bible to her son Ralph, and a silver wine cup to his wife, those not being in the inventory. (Hist. Coll. Essex Institute, vol. 2, p. 277.)
